

In view of the increasing needs for speedy and effective resolution for domain name and other intellectual property (IP) related disputes in the Asia region, the Asian Domain Name Dispute Resolution Centre (ADNDRC) will be organising an annual conference on Friday, 22 May 2009 at the Grand Hyatt Hotel Hong Kong. The conference will highlight the salient issues pertaining to intellectual property and domain name disputes resolution and introduce to the delegates the trend and development of online dispute resolution in the Asia region.

Since 2005, ADNDRC Conference has been successfully organised annually around the Asia-Pacific region, including Kuala Lumpur, Hong Kong, Beijing and Seoul. We believe that this year's Conference will attract a considerable number of members from these associations as well as many other professionals from the international community. The event will undoubtedly provide a unique and unrivalled forum, bringing together in-house counsels, barristers, solicitors, arbitrators, mediators, domain name experts, and senior executives of major local and international corporations.
