Hong Kong Computer Society Elected New Council Members
New President Michael Leung: Keeping Focus on Professional Development & Young Talent Cultivation
Appointing Spokespersons for ICT related subjects for media enquiries

June 14, 2013 • Hong Kong – New Council members of Hong Kong Computer Society (HKCS), the largest Information and Communication Technology (ICT) professional body in Hong Kong, have been elected in the Annual General Meeting on 16 May 2013 and Mr. Michael Leung, Senior Vice President & CIO, China Construction Bank (Asia), has been elected as HKCS' President. The HKCS Council will continue their efforts on professional development and young talent cultivation, to strive for uplifting professional standards of local ICT practitioners, so as to strengthen international competitiveness of Hong Kong's ICT industry and hence make valued contribution to a sustainable development of Hong Kong's economy as well as to encourage more young people to take ICT related subjects in tertiary institutions.

Mr. Michael Leung, the newly elected President, said, “on behalf of HKCS, I must recognize the valuable contribution of the Council members of previous year and welcome new members, as part of the strong professional team, to jointly advance the development of Hong Kong's ICT industry. HKCS has always been promoting the professional standards of the industry. This year, we will continue focusing on professional development and young ICT talents cultivation, to sustain the competitiveness of Hong Kong's ICT industry.”

HKCS has appointed spokespersons for various areas and is pleased to provide professional view points, insights as well as background knowledge on information and communications technology related topics and issues for media reporting at the same time.

“Being the largest professional organisation in information and communications technology industry, HKCS believes the expertise and insights of spokespersons can help media when reporting on information and communications technology related topics,” added Mr. Leung.

Mr. Leung furthered, “the Hong Kong SAR Government has committed to developing a knowledge-based economy. In addition to urging the Government to launch, in joint force with the ICT industry, a sustainable scheme with synergy effect to attract more students to choose ICT related tertiary studies, the community as a whole must also endeavor to create more career opportunities to match with the increased talent supply.”

Mr. Leung disclosed that HKCS will continue focus on young ICT talents cultivation this year. Last year, HKCS has held Hong Kong’s first IT Career Expo and launched the “Talent ICT Youth Program – ICT as a Career Toolkit”.

The Toolkit program contained a series of videos named “IT is Your Ideal Career” introducing IT jobs and career prospects and a series of IT career talks in secondary schools and tertiary institutions delivered by senior HKCS members in order to encourage young students to understand ICT industry in depth, further study ICT related subjects and develop ICT as personal career. The videos can be found from HKCS website (<http://www.hkcs.org.hk/ict-toolkit/> or searched as “IT is Your Ideal Career” at YouTube.

This year, one of the major focuses of HKCS will be the organising of “Asia Pacific Information and Communication Technology Awards 2013” (APICTA 2013), the annual event of ICT Industry in Asia Pacific region, and Hong Kong International Computer Conference 2013 (HKICC 2013), which are held in November. Representatives from different economies of Asia Pacific region will participate and it is bound to be an annual flagship event in the ICT industry of Asia Pacific region.

Mr. Leung added, “apart from young talent cultivation, HKCS will continuously promote ICT professional certification and develop the Certification Roadmap, to upgrade the professional standards of IT practitioners and help them on planning of career development, thus improve the overall competitiveness of Hong Kong ICT industry. We will promote IT Professional Certification (ITPC) as one of the consideration factors for employment and promotion among employers. We will also encourage the employers to enhance staff training on taking the ITPC test. And some relevant job titles will be considered to add to current Roadmap.”
